Production and Consumption of Copper Washington, Peb. 44 Mr. C. Kirchoff, Jr., has submitted to the Casted States geological society the following preliminary statement of the projection and consump tion of copper in the United States in 1888 From returns obtained from the majority of producers and checked supplemented by full reports from nearly all the refineries in the country, the following preliminary estimate of the production of copper in the United States is completed:

Lake Superior, St. 194,993 pounds; Arizona. 81,797,2007 pounds: Mon'ana, 97,897,968 pounds: New Mexico, 4,631,271 pounds: Cali-Iornia, 1,170,621; Colora to, 1,221,100; Utah, 2,191,047; Wyotaing, 2 2,819; Nevada, 50,-900; Idaho, 50,000; Meia . New Hampshire, and Vermont, 271,001; outhern states, 18, 201; lead desdverizers, etc., 2,618,974. Total domestic copper, 225,4014.5 From ported pyrites and or s, 4,509,456 pounds. Total, 230,403,581 pounds.

The production is even now proceeding a a grater rate, and a very considerable in grease is expected should prices continue at or near the 1 or at level of about sixteen and a halt cents for lake copper, unless the French syndicate and the names whose product it has contracted for agree upon some reduction of outputs. It is reported that on January 1, 1889, the stock in the hands of the syndicate in this country was 59,000,000 pounds. This includes fine copper in Malte and ore in transit and at works, with the exception of some Anarond's material. Of the total quantity of capper produced in the Sensamption has undoubt-lly fallen off, Athough not to the extent which was probably widely expected. Reports from 109 consumers-among them nearly all the great copper and brass rolling mills and the leading brass founders, including also large new concerns which it dilittle or nothing in 1887, like the Tamarack & Os cola Manufacturing company and the Hartman Steel company-Peports from these works show an aggregate consumption of new copper in 1558 of 76,-124,641 pounds, against 52,658,378, pounds in

A Defective Gun. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The Star prints the following: "It seems that the cast-steel six-inch breech loading rifle, known as the "Thurlow" gain, which apparently passed the government firing tests successfully at was sea, to the senate to the day when it Annapolis last week, is not going to have such an easy victory over the booped, or built-up causen, after all. The official report of the officer conducting the tests men-tions certain defects discovered in the bore of the gun that will probably give ground for a final report adverse to its acceptance July 17, an ire-committed December 14. It was by the government. They are thought to be reported a real January 12, 1887, and March due to the gas bubbles that formed during the casting process. c .. ds of the cast-steel gun are hopeful that the detects noted will not cause the gun to be rejected. Unsatisfactory Fight.

McAuliffe and Myers Meet in the Ring.

THE FIGHT ENDS IN A DRAW

A Four-Hour Contest and Sixty-Four Rounds Without Either Man Being Pun-Ished Has the Appearance of a Parce. Auxious to Try It Over for More Gate Money-

NORTH JUDSON, Ind., Feb. 14.-Notwithstanding the fight between Myers and Me-Audiffe had been temporarily declared off, the two men met in the apera house at this place yesterday morning at 4 o'clock. The large croud that had come over from Streator, Ill., remained up all night, so deeply interested were they in the buttle. It was a battle to the death, for neither Jack McAuliffe nor Billy Myers had ever been defeated before. The fight was for $5,000, the "Police Gazette" dimmond belt and the lightweight championship of the world.

Mike McDonald, of Chicago, was chosen referce. There was a wrangle over Mc-Auliffe having plastered his hands under his gloves, which for a time threatened to stop the proceedings. Colville advised McAuliffe to keep the gloves on. Finally he was allowed to put them on. At 6:40 two marshals jumped on the platform and informed these present that the light could not goon. After a long wrangle with the referee and the sheriff it was agreed to allow a boxing match. Time was called at 6:55.

After fighting sixty-four rounds, which consumed nearly four hours and a half. Referee McDonald decided the battle a draw. There was nothing else for him to(t). Myers, who is usually a whirlwind dighter, took the defensive from the start, and in all of the sixty-four counds made but tour leads. He seemed afraid of his antagonist it looked as though he was not counting on anything much better thun a draw. McArbife was first cantions, then method, and finally disgusted. He did all the Jerdeng, and at the first ten rounds got in two or three effective blows. Then his wiry anti-const began to give him a foot race, which was kept up until many of the spectarors based. "I can't hit him; he won't give me in fight," was Me-Auhifo's doleful exclaneation as he returned to his corner after each round.

Myors was not running any chances. . All Streator and the mining towns about it had backed him for thousands of dollars, and in some cases his friends mortgaged their homes in order to bring money to the ring side. It would have been disastrous for him to lose. His chances for success were not the lest. A draw was possible, and that is what the little fellow played for and won. This nettled McAuhife, but otherwise the half starved, half-trozen, sleepy-eyed spectators were pleased with the decision, which killed what at one time appeared to be an interminable faces.

The battle between the two famous lightweights, which it was believed would be long and bloody, scarcely evene up to expectations. It was long and redious, but neither fighter drew enough blood to soil an evening dress necktie.

This said that the gate money amounted to $6,000 and that many persons without tickets were present.

The sports who witnessed the affair or press the belief that it was only a spar preliminary to a real buttle hereafter.

Two Trains Cannot Pass Each Other on

An Interesting Ceremony in the House of Congress. THE RESULT ANNOUNCED.

Formally Declared Elected President and Vice President of the United States for Four Years Beginning March 4, 1889.

WASRINGTON, Feb. 14.-Long before noon the crowd that was to witness the counting of the electoral vote began to gather at the capital and to fill the corridors of the house wing. One o'clock was the hour fixed for the ceremony, but at 11:30 every scat in the galleries was filled. Hardly more than one hundred seats had been left open to the public. The rest had been reserved for the friends and families of members,

When all the scats in the galleries were full, the crowd began to encroach upon the floor of the house. Extra seats had been crowded behind the desks and concluhad been placed in the space immediately in front, of the speaker's desk.

The buzz of conversation drowned the voices of the members, who rose to present reports, and the speaker pounded the house to order again and again in vain. The only galleries that were packed were the executive and the diplomatic galleries. The president's seat in the front row of the executive gallery was couply, and there were a num-ber of seats in the diplomatic gallery that were not taken. Mrs. Carlisle was in the speaker's gallery, accompanied by Mrs. Steele, of Indiana; Miss Steele and some other friends.

A few minutes before t o'clock there was a full in the conversation, and the speaker these took the opportunity to announce the order that would be observed in scating the semi-

ors. At two minutes before I o'clock Col. Canaday, sergeant-nt-arms of the senate, appeared at the door of the house, his arm linked in that of Jun Christic, acting assist-ant doorkeeper of the senate. They stopped while the assistant clerk of the house, standing in the confer isle, addressed the chair and announced the coming of the senate. As the announcement was made, the members of the house rose and remained standing while the senatorial procession entered. Behind Capaday and Christie came the venerable Capt. Bassett, assistant doorkeeper of the senate, bearing in either hand a big brown box. Behind Capt Bassett came the two special officers, who have for weeks stood guard over the room of the president of the senate, where the electoral votes have been deposited.

Then came the president of the senate pro tempore, John G. Ingulls, his arm linked in that of Gen. Anson McCook, secretary of the senate; then Senators Manderson and Informer, is known in this city by Capt. Harris, and behind them, two and two, the senutors. A prominent figure in the line moving Union soldiers from southern graves was that of ex Senator Ferry, of Michigan, to national cemeteries, and who found the Ahnost directly across the also from him as While in Chattanooga in 1865 he was a wite result in a naurder trial. The tellors appointed by the two houses—Senators Manderson and Harris and ook seats at the clerk's desk below.

When the assembly had come to order Senator Ingails are so and announced in clear. distinct tones that this being the day appointed for opening the certificates and counting the electoral vote for predicut and vice president, the senate and fourse had met together for that purpose, pursuant to the laws of the United States. If there was no laws of the United States. objection to the state of Alabama it would be read, and the tellers would count it. Mr. Ingalis then opened the package and handed its contents to Senator clauderson, who unfolded the papers and began to read the certificate. At the same time the second copy of the vote was handed to Representative Ermentrout, who followed the reading of Senator Manderson, and compared it with the text before him. When the recoling of the cartificate was concluded, the individual votes were read and the result recorded by the tollers.

The electoral vote of Arkansas was next presented, and was read by Senator Harris. At the conclusion of the reading Senator Edmunds, who had consulted with the pre-siding officer, arose and usked manimums consent that the reading of the certificates be dispensed with. No objections was made. and thereafter the tellers simply announced the results. Just before the announcement of the vote of Delaware. Mr. Cox arese and ots were taken for United States senator in called attention to a clause in the law of joint session, each ballot standing: Goff, 39; February 3, 1887, providing that the presid-Kenna, 37; E. W. Wilson, 3; W. R. Neal, 3, and Frank Hereford, 1. Mr. Kenna has an-announcement of each vote. Several amusing errors were made by the tellers in announcing the votes. Mr. Ementrout and the vote of Delaware for vice prosident cast for "Levi P. ---, Allan G. Thurman," An announcement which was greeted with laughter. Schater Mandeson announced that in Illinois Benjamin Harrison and Levi F. Morton had received 'twenty votes each." "For what?" said Senator Hoar from his seat in the front row, and the senators about him laughed quietly. When Indiana was reached Senator Harris took the certificate in his hand and announced in his peculiarly deliberate way that the certificate appearing to be in good form showed "that Grover Cleveland" there was a shout of laughter from the galleries, and the floor and the proceedings were suspended for fully a minute. Then the reading of the certificate proceeded. At its conclusion Senator Ingally arose and called attention briefly to the breach of dignity and decorum, and expressed the hope that it would not occur again. When the vote of Oregon was reached, Senator Ingalls an nounced that there were too many papers in the envelopes, and the tellers accordingly examined them. They reported that there was but one in duplicate, and as that seemed to be in the form no objection was made loft. When the vote of Pennsylvania was announced, Senato: Chaunds arose and said: It seems to me in a Penn-ylvania has more

"Thirty was the number that was distintly aumounced," said Senator Harris, rather sharply, and Senator Edmunds sat down. At 2:05 Senator Harris read the result of the vote in Wisconsin, Senator Ingalls said: "The certificates having now been read, the tellers will deliver the result to the president of the senate,"

The tellors basical themselves for five min-utes counting the votes and entering them. Sonator Manderson then arose and said: "The fellers on the part of the senate and the louise of representatives report the following as the ascertainment of the result of president, for the term beginning March 4, 18:9." the count of votes for president and vice Morton had received 23) votes each, and Grover Cloveland and Allen G. Thurman 168 votes each for president and vice president respectively. The tellers' sheet was then chanded to Senator lugalls, who is set form announced the result agam.

"This announcement by the president of the senate," be said in conclusion, "is by law a sufficient declaration that Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, is elected president of the United States, and Levi P. Morton, of New York, vice president of the United States, each for the term beginning March 1, 1889," The announcement, together with a list of the votes, he said, would be entered on the journal of either house. He then declared the joint session ended.

Arranta, Ga., Feb. 14 .- Mrs. Hargrave, ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 11.—AIRS, Hargrave, the aged must of Solicitor General Gober, was nurdered yesterday afternoon at her home in Cobb conaty. When the body was found by neighbors it presented a fearful appearance, the skull being crushed in and the hoad nearly severed from the trunk. Not far from the body by an ax, the weapon with which the crime had been committed. That robbery was the motive of the murder is evident, as the house had been thoroughly ransacked and everything of value taken away. There is no clew to the murderors.

One day, seeing a thunder storm approaching, he went, accompanied by his son, to a shed where, having raised a kite, he fastened a key to the lower extremity of the hempen cord, insulating it by attaching it to a beam with a piece of silk. Immediately after he observed some loose threads of the string rise and stand erect, and, on precenting his kninchle to the key, to his great delight he drew from it the well known spark. His emotion was so great at the completion of this discovery, which made his name immortal, that he felt he could almost have paid for his discovery with his life.

Have you ever thought about it; your toys, I mean, where they come from and who makes them? Of late years there has sprung up quite a trade in our own country with manufacturers of toys, especially tin and wooden one; but the bulk of toys are of foreign manufacture, Bayaria, Thuringia and Robetter; but toys are also made for experiation in Sweden, Norway, Belgiam and Holland. The French toy is decidedly the best, both in artistic design and workmanship; but it is also very much the most expensive, and the trade senicely increases from year to year, whilst the German toy tradendymees in Jeaps and jumps, and the article becomes cheaper and cheaps r. Sweden and Norway make chiefly things of wood; from them we get our cape and dulls, our nests of turned boxes, etc. Belgium follows in this, and in nearly all other articles of manufacture, closely upon the plans and models of France; and Holland, as might be expected, makes lead solders.

In Germany many towns, and mero expe-cially the qualit old towns of Nuremberg and Leipsic, are surrounded by a great community of persent toymakers. These people, whose picturesque hamlets nestle in the depths of the Thuringia forcet, or dot the open country, are engaged during the entire winter in this employment.

The process of toy making is varied, but different neces composing it are made by different hands, and put together ly still another worker. Sometimes the toy is entirely made by one person, but this relident occurs where a family works together,

In America, "to est crow" is the same as to eat humble pie—i. e., to have to retract or to be put to shame. "To talk crow" is the opposite of "to talk turkey," and means to talk LIVER PILL9! to another's disadvantage. It comes from a story of a white man who went to hunt with an Indian on condition that the game should be divided between them. There was a brace of wild turkeys and a brace of crows, and the white man counted, "There's a crow for you and a turkey for me, and another crow for you and"- To which the indian remonstrated, "You talk all turkey for you and all crow

Population of the Globe—It Poubles Every Half Century. The comparative tables of the population and area of the various countries of the world, taking them with their dependencies, which appear in the new edition of The Statesman's year book, have been compiled from Professor Levasseur's statistics furnished to the International Statistical institute, and may be described as presenting old facts in a new and linked with the history of electricity-that striking light. In point of area the British empire stands at the head of the list, the number of thousands of square nules being 0,000, Russia following closely with 8.611. Though the Chinese empire is but a little less than one-half as extensive as its neighbor, in population China, with her 404,000,000, tops all the countries of the earth, The British empire comes next, with 507,000,000, and Russia with only 104,000,000; while France has but 71,000,000, the United States 58,000,000 and the German empire 48,000,000. The comparative rates of increase of population of the European states since 4800 also yield some instructive results. Thus, while the United Kingdom has since that period risen from 16,250,000 to $7,000,000, Russia in Europe from 35,000,000 to 88,000,000, and the German empire from 27,000,000 to 47,000,-000 (including Alsaco and Lorraine), Franco has only advanced from $3,000,020 to $8,250,-000. Professor Levasseur estimates that between 1710 and 1874 the entire population of the world about doubled-the figures being follows: "One of Plato's disciples, anticipating Munchausen, compared his master's thoughts to words frozen in the air as soon as uttered, to be heard long after when thawed out by a warmer senson, as voices falling out of the air upon astonished travelers. In Hood's Comic Annual for 1839 we find the following administration of the phonegraph: 'In this century of inventions, when a self acting drawing paper has been discovered for copying visible objects, who knows but that a future Niepce, or Daguerre, or Hersehel, or Fox-Taibot, may find out some sort of Boswellish writing paper to repeat whatever it hears? Similarly, about a quarter of a century before the invention of the telephone and the phonograph, the editors of The Artisan reported the meetings of their 'club' by means of an imaginary 'reporting box,' which was always placed upon the table, and faithfully reproduced all that was said by the distinguished members."

The Happiest Country in Europe. According to Dr. Alice Vickery the first place belongs to France, chiefly because Prench families do not exceed manageable dimensions. She says: "In the first place, while the surplus of women in the United Kingdom and in Germany amounts to nearly three-quarters of a million and one million respectively, France, in 1885, had a surplus of only 92,000 women, and, as a consequence, marriages are more prevalent in proportion to population in Franco than elsewhere; and, curiously enough-contrary to the general opinion in this country-France has the smallest proportion of Heglimate births. Thus, from 1815 to 1867 the percentage of all illegitimate birthe was 7.2 in France; 8.3 in Prussia; 10 in Sweden; 11 in Austria, and 22 in Bayoria. Franco has the lowest birth rate of all European countries-viz., 23.8.

Signor Blitz.

The first of the great prestidigitateurs in America was Signor Blitz, Antonio Blitz, prestidigitateur and ventriloquist, died in Philadelphia, Jan. 28, 1877. He left two daughters-Jennie, who married James Van Zandt, a coasin of ex-Governor Van Zandt, of Rhode Island, and Ada, who married a New York man-also a son, Arthur, who made no headway in the world and died. The old ventriloquist, Blitz, had two or three assistants who attended him in his performances, and some of them performed in his name in various parts of the country after his death. The old magician was an English always simple. In some cases certain ments Jew and his wife was Irish. Chinese Cities.

There are no official records of the population of Chipeso cities, and guesses at the number of their inhabitants must depend on the guesser. Canton is "estimated" to have 1,000,000 inhabitants. Twenty years ago it had 1,250,000. Pekin, in 1970, bad an lass been pointing his baton at his old has one (also estimated) of 1,000,000. The probability is that the largest Chinese city hasn't more than two-thirds of its "estimated" population. The city of London, which is "London proper," has a population, according to the census of 1881, of 60,652. The great aggregation of houses and conglomeration of people which we call London

Plenty of Room.

It is very difficult to estimate the number of individuals in a crowd with any approach to accuracy. Thousands of people can stand in a very small space. From the following statistics it will be seen that there is plenty of room on the earth for all the people who inhabit it, and that there is no fear of our planet becoming over populated at present. The entire population of the world (now ostimated at 1,400,000,000) could stand on the space occupied by New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City. The state of New York would in this way accommodate 500 times top present population of the world. The entire population of the world, placed side by side, and allowing two feet to each person, would encircle the earth twenty times.

Origin of County Courts.

The extent of settlement had become so great in Virginia in 1022 that it was incon venient to bring all legal causes to the capi-tal at Jamestown, and inferior courts were appointed in convenient places to relieve the governor and council (who constituted the superior judiciary) of a heavy burden of busizes, and to regiver business more accessible and less expensive. With these began the establishment of county courts in America.

ANTS FOR EATING.

Some as Large as Poxes, Should a Maine lumberman find a stump of rotten log with thousands of big black ants in it, he scoops the torpid insects from their winter domicile and fills his dinner pail with them. When he gets back to his camp at night he sets the pail in a cool place until his suppor is ready, then brings it forth, and, while helping himself to pork and beans, helps himself also to ants. There is no accounting for tastes, and he esteems a handful of ants a very choice morsel. Ants are said by those who have tasted them to have a peculiarly agreeable.

strongly acid flavor. The woodsmen, whose food consists largely of salted meat, baked beans and similar hearty of pickles," said an eld "logger," who confessed to having devoured thousands of them. "They are cleanly insects, and there is no reason why they should not be eaten, if one can get over a little squeami/lmess caused by the thought of taking such crawling things into his about them, and when a man has once learned to cat the creatures as pickles he prefers them to any other kind." Ants have at various times and in different countries been quite extensively used in medicine, and formicacid, which was first obtained by distilling the bodies of these insects, but is now artificially prepared, is a well known and useful hemical product. Herodotus tells of ants that live in the leserts of India which are in size "somewhat less than degs, but larger than foxes." These creatures, in heaping up the earth after the manner of common ants, were a very efficient aid to the Indian gold hunters. The sand which they threw up being largely mixed with gold, the Indians were accustomed to go to the desert in the heat of the day, when the ants were underground, load the sand into sacks, pile the sacks upon their canaels, and hasten from the spot as rapidly as possible. The anta, according to the historian, were not only the swiftest of animals, but were gifted with such a sense of smell that they immediately became aware of the presence of men in their territory, and unless the Indians got away while the ant a were assembling to attack them not a man could escape. -Pittsburg Dispatch.

Webster's Blue Suit.

Daniel Webster went to college in a homespun suit, of which probably every thread was carded, spun, and, woven, by is mother's hand from the wool of their own sheep. A contributor to Wide Awake says it was a dyed-in-the-wool suit, and the color was indigot blue-the old New England color.

In the south it is butternut; but though our Yankee grandmothers and great-great-great-grandmothers knew all about what butternut bark would do, and the subtile power for slate color, that lay in sumach berries and bark of white maple, and the various dyes that root and flower, back and leaf could be made to yield through the agency of vitrol and alum and copperas to "set" them fast. the universal stand by was the blue pot -par excellence the "dye pot" -that stood in the chimney corner of every kitchen worth naming. So Webster was fitted out in indico

blue from collar to antide-turbecomm, for his swart rkin-and set off grand and sophomorie. Before teaching thanover, there came on one of those dreaching rains which, like the Scottish mist, wet a man to the thin. The suit held its own-for has not indigo blue been warranted for t" since first indige war heard of?-but it had parted with enough so that Daniel, too, was died blue from head to foot. Daniel Webster had a fiberal dratum of sentiment in his make up; and for some reason, this color of his young through life. He wore blue contato his dying day. If any one ever raw him in a different one, the fact has not been put on record.—Youth's Companion. Rubbustein and Von Balow Quarrel.

The most fiery of planists and of or thestral conductors, Dr. Hans von Bulow, "estimated" population of 1,500,000; now it friend Rubinstein, to whose "Ocean Symphony" he has taken a sudden dislike. After directing at a rehear, al the six movements of Rubinstein's symphony which is, indeed, "vast and illimitable like the ocean, Dr. von Bulow, according to a not unfrequent custom of his, addressed to the members of the orchestra some disparaging remarks on the work contains, included in the metropolitan and they had just been playing, and ended by saying: "A symphony like this can be properly dealt with only by a conductor with long hair." (Dr. von Bulow wears his hair short.) On reading the report of Dr. von Bulaw's little speech Rubinstein wrote from St. Petersburg to the paper which had published it, expressing his surprise that in the midst of his important and manerous occupations the learned doctor should have found time to measure the length of his (Rubinstein's) hair. He also inquired affectionately after the length of Dr. von Bulow's cars; wishing in particular to know whether they had grown since the evening when, after hearing Rubinstein's opera of "Nero" for the first time, he shook the composer warmly by the haid and even embraced him.-St. James Gazette.

The Largest Gold Mines in the World. At Lead City, near Deadwood, Lawrence county, are located the largest gold mines and mills in the world, the Homestake." The ore bodies mined by this company show a working face from 200 to 400 fect wide, sinking to an inexhaustible depth. Six hundred stamps crushing 20,000 cubic feet of rock every twenty-four hours, drop incessantly, day and night, in the mills, without an intermission even for the Sabbath. During the ten years in which the mines of the Homestake combination have been operated they have produced about $25. 000,000 in bullion, and paid over $6,000,-000 in dividends to sto kholders.-P. A few years ago there was added to the Store Procession of Marion the CLEAR STEADY note of A NEW HORN.

It was sounded in the "reat;" at first UNNOTICED, almost unarged; through TIME, PATIENCE and INTEGRITY of performance its purity of tone and BEATTY of axacuries were at length recognized by its immediate neighbors, the procession "right-about Isced," and today "it leads the van." PUBLIC CONFIDENCE, AD-MIRATION, PATRONAGE, PRAISE and LOTAL-TY, all have been won legitimately by the our-anti-our worth of the class of goods

we handle. Dear reader, will YOU join the procession and help us protect your 8. $. FOX & CO... Fite Block, East Center St.
